

International Journal of Shipping and Transport Logistics

Special Issue on: “Shipping and Port Economics and Policy In Memory of Richard Goss”

Guest Editors

Prof. Paul Tae-Woo Lee, RMIT University, Australia

Prof. Kevin Cullinane, University of Gothenburg, Sweden

Professor Richard Goss (1929-2017) published numerous works in the field of maritime economics, including the edited volumes, Studies in Maritime Economics (1968, Cambridge University Press) and Advances in Maritime Economics (1977, Cambridge University Press). Over the years, both his teaching and research output enriched the knowledge and learning of numerous students within the maritime arena and his advice played an important role in shaping UK government policy on shipping and ports. In celebration of the life and work of Professor Richard O. Goss and in recognition of his pivotal role in the development of the field of maritime economics, submissions are invited to this special issue on, focussing on an important area of interest to which this prestigious maritime economist made his most significant contributions.
